

Code of Conduct

Bitcoin Core Developer Meetup

The Bitcoin Core Developer Meetup is designed to be a safe, respectful, and productive event for everyone. We are dedicated to providing a productive, safe environment and experience for all participants. This code of conduct is a guide for the behavior we don't support at both the in-person gathering and in communication channels surrounding the event:

- Violation of any applicable laws
- Harassment of any kind toward participants
- Sustained disruption of the event
- Abuse of the event facilities
- Unauthorized access of participant's devices
- Threats of violence, intimidation, stalking, or unwelcome sexual attention
- Doxing or unauthorized publication of private information or communication
- Unauthorized taking of photos or videos

This event operates under the Chatham House Rule: participants are free to use the information received, but neither the identity nor the affiliation of the speaker(s), nor that of any other participant, may be revealed. This includes the event itself as well as any event-affiliated communications.

If you see a violation

1. Notify the participant they are in violation of the code of conduct and ask them to stop their behavior. That participant should comply immediately.
2. If the participant does not correct the issue or if you're uncomfortable speaking up, contact an event organizer. When reporting, please include any relevant details, links, screenshots, context that may be used to better understand and resolve the situation.
3. As soon as available, an administrator will join, identify themselves, and take further action. These actions could include:
 - A warning
 - Removal from the event
 - Being banned from all future Core Dev Meetups

We reserve the right to reject any report we believe to have been made in bad faith.

We will respect confidentiality requests for the purpose of protecting disclosers of violations. At our discretion, we may publicly name a person about whom we've received harassment complaints, or privately warn third parties about them, if we believe that doing so will increase the safety of Bitcoin Core developers or the general public. Regardless of our findings, we will not name harassment victims/reportees without their affirmative consent.

Thank you for your help in keeping our event welcoming, respectful, and friendly to all participants.

Disclaimer

BY PARTICIPATING IN THIS EVENT YOU AGREE TO THIS LIABILITY DISCLAIMER:

No liability insurance is provided for the protection of individuals, groups, organizations, businesses, attendees, speakers, sponsors or others who may participate, in any capacity, in events organized, co-organized, promoted and/or sponsored by the Core Dev Meeting organizers ("organizers").

In consideration for your participation in Core Dev events, you do hereby release and forever discharge the organizers as well as its sponsors, jointly and severally, from any and all actions, causes of actions, claims and demands for, upon or by reason of any damage, loss or injury, which hereafter may be sustained by participating in Core Dev events.

This release extends and applies to, and also covers and includes, all unknown, unforeseen, unanticipated and unsuspected injuries, damages, loss and liability and the consequences thereof, as well as those now disclosed and known to exist. The provisions of any state, federal, local or territorial law or statute providing that releases shall not extend to claims, demands, injuries, or damages which are known or unsuspected to exist at this time, to the person executing such release, are hereby expressly waived.

By participating in Core Dev events, you hereby agree to indemnify the organizers and its event co-organizers, sponsors, speakers, and any other people or companies involved in the event from any and all actions, and causes of actions, claims and demands for, upon or by reason of any damage, loss or injury, which hereafter may be sustained by participating in Core Dev events in any capacity.

By allowing you to participate in Core Dev events, the organizers, speakers and sponsors, do not assume any risk or admit any liability in connection with these events. You expressly assume all risk of any injuries or damages caused by any person or entity for any reason during the Core Dev event or related activities, including, but not limited to, the negligence of the organizers, its speakers and sponsors, or any other person.

This Disclaimer shall be construed broadly to provide a release and waiver to the maximum extent permissible under the applicable law.